Winter warmers for iKaya

Not everyone has an intuitive understanding of what child poverty is. You have to see it to understand the needs of so many. It is a situation where children do not have adequate resources to grow healthy and strong, to obtain an education, to live in a good and safe environment, and to fulfil their ultimate potential. Where children are deprived of such resources, they are living in poverty. Just drive into Kayamandi's informal settlement just outside Stellenbosch and you can see it...

Allowing children to live in poverty is not right. The instrumental value of child poverty is linked to the fact that children will grow up to be the adults of tomorrow. GraySwan invest resources and care into the lives of such children to help them build a better future.

Prochorus went to one of the primary schools in Kayamandi called iKaya and asked the headmaster what the children really need. "Some of the children come to school without a jersey, socks or shoes..." so it was quite obvious what they needed.

The GraySwan Charitable Trust donated school uniforms, tracksuits, shirts and shoes to the kids. In the photos you can see one of Prochorus' employees, NOMPI handing out the new clothes. It was another joyous experience! We were blessed by blessing them.
